BOSTON POLICE STRIKE DESERTION, GOVERNOR SAYS

Coolidge Expresses Opposition to Allowing Men to Return to Work—"Number" Want Reinstatement.

CITY AWAITS VOTE ON GENERAL STRIKE

Unions to Ballot at Once on Sympathetic Action; State Guard Still on Patrol; Death List Now 7.

By the Associated Press. BOSTON, Sept. 12.—The Government and laws of the commonwealth of Massachusetts cannot be arbitrated, this declaration from the State today was in response to an incessant public demand to know the attitude of the state toward the striking policemen and suggestions of compromise.

"The men are deserters," said Gov. Coolidge. "This is not a strike. These men were public officials. We cannot think of arbitrating the Government or the form of law. There can be no opportunity for any compromise in respect to either. My personal opinion is that they would not be taken back if they yielded, to my view."

Applications for reinstatement have been made by "a number" of striking policemen, Superintendent of Police Crowley said. Officers of the Police Union, however, assert that, instead of losing strength, they were gaining members. The union roll now shows 1385 members, it is said.

Compromise Suggestions. In the last 24 hours there have been suggestions of compromise, beginning with the statement that, if allowed to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor, the policemen would never be called out on strike in sympathy with other union organizations. Labor leaders have not admitted that they would make further concessions.

At the same time influential persons have urged that the Governor refuse to deal with the strikers at all, and, in the event of sympathetic strikes by the firemen, electrical workers, car men, telephone operators and the building trades, advised him to call for Federal troops and fight the issue to the end.

The attitude of the Governor was made known to newspapermen when he asked him flatly where he stood on the question of compromise in the face of the threat of further strikes being voted tonight.

Except for the presence of troops and many boarded-up windows, the streets appear normal today. Some reports have exaggerated the situation. The citizens of Boston do not appear to be terrorized and business is going on as usual. Business men are buying and selling though some have guns in their hip pockets. The citizens of Boston do not appear to be terrorized and business is going on as usual. Business men are buying and selling though some have guns in their hip pockets. The citizens of Boston do not appear to be terrorized and business is going on as usual. Business men are buying and selling though some have guns in their hip pockets.

Mayor Peters Indignant. Mayor Peters was indignant today because of some statement that he had received from out of town. He said "In three days of the strike I have not heard of a single case of indecency committed upon women. I deplore a tendency in some quarters to distort the facts."

The dice games which flourished for a time have been pretty much broken up today and traffic is moving without serious complications. A few arrests were made. Five men were captured when a volunteer officer jumped upon the running board of an automobile in which they were getting away. Two jimmies and other burglar tools, a flash light and a supply of cartridges were found in the bottom of the car.

Anxiety now is chiefly over the action that may be taken tonight by various labor unions which will vote upon the question of supporting the striking police.

The action of the constituent bodies of the Central Labor Union on the question of going out in support of the policemen is being awaited with some uncertainty.

Several of the union meetings are expected to be held today or tomorrow. The firemen will vote tonight and the telephone operators' union has announced a meeting at the same time to consider "matters of importance."

Gov. Coolidge, who is in charge of the police situation today as Commander in Chief of the armed forces of the State, has received assurances from both the War and Navy Departments that any call which he may make upon the President for Federal assistance will be answered promptly. Military leaders estimate that 18,000 regulars could reach the city within 12 hours.

The death list now stands at seven. Several of the fatalities were due to

TRAFFIC POLICEMEN BEGIN USING NEW WHISTLE SIGNAL

Members of Squad Find It Difficult to Keep From Waving Hands.

Throughout the downtown district today resounded blasts from the traffic policeman's new whistles. One blast means for north-and-south traffic to go ahead, and two blasts is the signal for east-and-west traffic to move on.

To those accustomed to the silent pantomime of the past, the shrill whistling sounds are strangely unfamiliar. However, the traffic policemen themselves seemed to be having the hardest time of it. Most of them continued to motion with their arms, and this sometimes resulted in arms and whistles getting tangled into knots as nearly inextricable as the traffic snarls which resulted.

"Joe" Schneider, who, as principal director of traffic at Twelfth and Locust streets, has become known to thousands of automobile drivers, was asked whether the whistle was superior to the arm in directing traffic. He said it was not, and facetiously complained that the whistle system deprived him of his two chief diversions—throwing kisses and chewing tobacco.

"Say, who invented this gag, anyhow?" he demanded. "It was hard enough to make some of these people understand signs, much less trying to let them in on code of whistle signals. This thing makes my mouth sore, and, besides, I forget to blow it half the time. Maybe it'll be all right, in time, only it sure makes the going rough now."

Similar sentiments were voiced by other traffic policemen. No system of signals for turns has been adopted, and it is probable that the arm signals for turns will continue in use for some time. Adoption of the whistles was at the suggestion of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which made it at a meeting of the Traffic Committee of the Council of the National Safety Council.

BOSTON POLICE STRIKE ACT OF INFAMY, SAYS SENATOR MYERS

Montana Member Characterizes Situation as "Everlasting Shame and Disgrace."

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Assailing the policemen's union of Boston in the Senate today, Senator Myers, democrat, Montana, declared their course "one of the most disgraceful acts of infamy that has ever occurred in this country since the act of Benedict Arnold."

He characterized the strike as "everlasting shame and disgrace" to this country. "What Boston needs is an Ole Hanson for Mayor," said Senator Myers.

"I think there ought to be a few Ole Hansons in Congress and a few Ole Hansons would also improve the Senate of the United States."

SWISS VOTE TO JOIN LEAGUE

Commission of National Council Indorses Proposal, 21 to 4.

By the Associated Press. BERN, Sept. 12.—The Swiss Parliament convoked Monday for deliberation of the league of nations. The Commission of the National Council decided by a vote of 21 to 4 to propose the admission of Switzerland in the hope that the actual league would soon be enlarged into a general league of nations.

A suggestion by Deputy Keller to postpone the question of Switzerland's admission until the decision of the United States was given was rejected.

WARRANTS SERVED ON CAFE OWNERS FOLLOWING RAIDS

12 Men Apprehended by U. S. Officials Charged With Violation of War-Time Prohibition Act.

HEARINGS SET FOR SEPTEMBER 24

Proprietors Furnish Bonds for $1000 Each for Themselves and Employees—Were Ready With Money Early.

Twelve Federal warrants, charging violations of the war-time prohibition law, were issued and served today upon the proprietors and employees of six cafes and saloons in the city and county, where arrests of waiters were made last night by Government agents and city detectives after they had ordered intoxicating drinks, and had been served with highballs and whisky which they said were the "real thing."

Proprietors upon whom warrants were served were: Augustin Cleardi, Euclid avenue and Delmar boulevard; John Klaffeneta, Hamilton avenue and Delmar boulevard; Joseph Gonella, owner of Belvedere Roof Garden, Euclid avenue and Delmar boulevard, and the Belvedere Cafe in the basement of the Beiers Hotel, Grand avenue and Olive street.

James Casale, saloonkeeper at 3552 Olive street; Paul Kammerer, manager of Busch's Grove, Clayton and Price roads, St. Louis County; John Matthews, John F. McKelley, Fred J. Brooks, William Kastner and Edward Rector.

Bonds Put at $1000. The caterers furnished bonds for $1000 for themselves and their employees, and were instructed to appear Sept. 24 for preliminary hearing before a United States Commissioner.

As early as three hours before the warrants were issued, the proprietors had appeared with assured confidence at the Federal Building to give bond for employees arrested during the night. Upon their arrival the proprietors learned that it also was the Government's intention to issue warrants against them.

Last night's raids were quickly planned and every effort was made to prevent advance information from the law-enforcers.

This was the first effort in or around St. Louis to check the whisky traffic which has been conducted by a majority of saloonkeepers in violation of the war-time prohibition act.

The almost general practice of selling intoxicants in St. Louis saloons was checked for a short time a few weeks ago when a tip went out that Government agents were preparing to enforce the law more rigidly. For a day or two it was more difficult to obtain whisky, but when the expected raids were not made the lid was again tilted. Last night's raids made some saloonkeepers more cautious today.

Six in Raiding Party. James J. McLaughlin, head of the Department of Justice Investigating Bureau at St. Louis, personally conducted the "raids" with the assistance of a deputy and four detectives.

In an automobile they went to Busch's Grove. There they ordered 21 highballs and one straight whisky. After tasting the drinks they arrested George Schmidt, the waiter who served them.

Here, as at other places, the Government agents used small rubber bulb syringes to withdraw a part of the contents from each glass served to them. McLaughlin today said he and his party ordered the drinks openly and the service was ready and without question.

At Cafferata's Cafe they ordered highballs and after being served they arrested George C. Matthews, 821 Chestnut street, and John F. McKelley, 4831 Greer avenue, waiters.

At the Belvedere Roof Garden, they arrested Fred J. Brooks of 5280 Page boulevard, a waiter, and at Cleardi's they arrested William Kastner, a waiter.

The only saloon proprietor arrested was Casale. He acted as bartender when they ordered highballs. When told he was under arrest he insisted he had served only straight ginger ale to the Government agents.

W. C. Shopp, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, said today that citizens in sympathy with the

TEACHERS' UNION IN MONITEAU COUNTY, FIRST IN THE STATE

Local No. 107, American Federation of Teachers, Plans to Better Conditions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. TIPTON, Mo., Sept. 12.—The teachers of Moniteau County have formed the first teachers' union in the State. It is the first attempt of Missouri teachers to line up with organized labor. At the August association meeting in Moniteau County 43 teachers signed a petition applying for a charter with the American Federation of Teachers. A temporary organization, known as the Moniteau County Teachers' Union, was formed with the following officers: Supt. W. W. I. Oliver, California, chairman; Supt. C. O. Williams, Tipton, secretary-treasurer. A charter was granted by the national organization Sept. 6, so now this first organization is known as Local Union No. 107.

A meeting in California of all teachers in the county has been called for Sept. 27 at the Courthouse. At that time a permanent organization will be formed and an effort will be made to get every teacher in the county into the organization. The teachers expect by better organization and closer co-operation to improve the schools and provide better salaries. Temporary organizations have also been formed in Cole, Cooper, Morgan, Johnson, Cass, Lafayette and Bates counties, and a larger movement in this direction is expected throughout the State this fall.

CROWD GASPS WHEN PRINCE TAMES "BUCKING" MUSTANG

Watches Expert Horseman at Saskatoon and Says He Wants to Ride Too.

SASKATOON, Sask., Sept. 12.—After witnessing the best horseman-ship and steer-throwing exhibitions the "Wild West" could produce, the Prince of Wales proved to 20,000 ranchers, cattlemen and cowboys here yesterday that "bucking bronchos" hold no terrors for their future king.

After displaying a keen interest in all the "stunts" the Prince indicated a desire to participate. At his request a very little mustang, named and unbroken, was brought out fresh from the paddock while the huge crowd gasped in surprise. The prince gained the saddle gracefully and held it until the little mount was exhausted by its efforts to unseat him.

SOMEBODY MADE A MISTAKE IN PERSHING'S NEW COMMISSION

He Is "General of the Armies of the United States," Also a General in the Regular Army.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Somebody made a mistake in Pershing's new commission, Chairman Kahn of the Military Committee told the House yesterday, which might cost the General some of the pay and allowances carried with the new title.

While Congress made him a "General of the Armies of the United States" the War Department made him a "General in the Regular Army."

The experts are now looking for a way to unwind the tangle and still leave it technically correct.

The assignment of this proposed action of the King was greeted with a great demonstration of loyalty. The whole chamber stood and cheered and the public galleries joined in the enthusiasm.

CHEAPER FOOD FOR NEW YORK

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Plans have been perfected by the City Department of Markets by which it is hoped to have on the streets of New York in a week or so 500 trucks loaded with foodstuffs for sale to the people at prices 40 to 50 per cent below the market price. According to Commissioner Jonathan C. Day, one company or several will be organized to supervise the trucks, and the food will be carried straight from the producer to the consumer.

SENATOR JOHNSON HERE TO COMBAT PRESIDENT'S VISIT

Californian Arrives to Make Two Speeches Answering Arguments in Favor of League of Nations.

PARADE FOLLOWS ROUTE OF WILSON'S

Greeted by Reception Committee of 30, Including Republicans and Democrats Urging Irish Freedom.

United States Senator Hiram Johnson, on tour following up President Wilson in an effort to overcome the effect of the President's explanations of the league of nations covenant, arrived in St. Louis this morning from Indianapolis, to speak at a City Club luncheon and at an anti-league of nations meeting at the Coliseum tonight.

The Senator was met at Union Station by a reception committee of 30, consisting of Republican officeholders and organization politicians, and a few Democrats, the latter mostly members of the Friends of Irish Freedom and other Irish societies. There were few sightseers, no more than the usual number of travelers in the station.

After posing for photographs with Mayor Kiel, former Federal Judge Henry S. Priest, Dr. John H. Simon and Chairman J. Schuch of the Republican City Committee, he was driven to the St. Louis Club, where breakfast was served. The breakfast was attended by the members of the reception committee and about 50 other politicians, including several members of women's war Republic committees in St. Louis.

Little About Minority Report. Arrangements were made by Mayor Kiel and Edward W. Forister for Johnson to talk to newspaper reporters. He talked to them for 15 minutes, refusing to discuss the minority report of the Democrats on the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate. He said that he did not intend to make a mention of the amendment proposed by the Lodge group of Republicans to require that the United States have no vote in the league as long as Quaker-like moral strength.

The remainder of his statement followed very closely the principal points in the speeches that he, Senator Reed and other anti-Wilson Senators have delivered in the Senate and in the campaign to discredit the President. He expressed great admiration for Lloyd George.

"I take off my hat to him," the Senator said. "Would it not have been glorious if the United States could have hired a man like Lloyd George and then we could have been represented at the peace conference."

"Our trouble was that Mr. Wilson was sitting in the other fellow's game and he got what a man usually gets when he sits in the other fellow's game. Mr. Wilson went to Paris to sincerely represent this country, but there he dropped his ideals one by one."

Wants "League of Peoples." He concluded by saying that he could write a league of nations covenant. He said one he would write would be a league of peoples and "not a league of rulers."

Shortly after 10 o'clock a parade of automobiles, occupied by those who had attended the breakfast, started on a drive to Hotel Statler, following virtually the same route over which President Wilson had taken his way. A band headed the procession.

By the time the Senator emerged from the St. Louis Club there was a gathering of about 50 persons in addition to those who had been at the breakfast, to see him.

Only the usual number of persons were on the streets on the route of the parade, which included Lindell boulevard to the Sub-off, almost straight to Twentieth, Washington avenue downtown and back over Olive, Twelfth and Locust streets to the Statler.

No Cheers From Spectators. Windows of factories and office buildings were filled but there was no enthusiasm, few cheers being heard. Drivers of the cars in the parade began tooting their automobile horns whenever the band stopped playing.

The Senator after his City Club address was left free during the afternoon by the reception committee. No seats had been reserved at the Coliseum except those on the stage for the reception committee. It has been announced by Chairman Schmoll that negroes will not be at the meeting, and will be permitted to sit where they please. The doors will be opened at 8 o'clock and those arriving early will be entertained by a glee club and a band until 8 o'clock, when the Senator is scheduled to speak.

GERMANS BEGINNING TO HOPE FOR SEPARATE PEACE WITH U. S.

Lodge Is No German Hater, Says Ex-Minister, Holding That America Believes Terms Are Excessive.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch. BERLIN, Sept. 11.—"All humanity, Germany particularly, is tensely awaiting the decision of the American people on the peace treaty," for Minister of State Von Scheller Steinhart said today. With many other Germans he is beginning to entertain real hope of a separate peace with America.

"Apparently, Senator Lodge is the soul of the opposition," he said. "The Senator is no German hater. He hates all non-Americans equally, and he is absolutely a just man of almost Quaker-like moral strength. When he and other important Senators fight the peace treaty their course means that the treaty displeases them because in the excessive enslavement of Germany, for which America would be forever co-responsible, they see grave danger of future complications."

"That course is to be hated like the morning red of a new dawn. There is promise of a still better realization of conditions in the prospect that America in all seriousness may express the wish for a separate peace with the Central Powers."

"The Germans can only wish that the action of the Senate may reflect a mighty change in opinion that has been misguided and that the American people may come to favor the conclusion of a separate peace. If that shall not result, all thought to revision of the peace terms must die. At all events, the Senate can educate the public toward a league of nations, based on the strength and purity of the original project for a league such as will be capable of inaugurating a new and happy epoch in history."

BULLITT QUOTES LANSING AS SAYING LEAGUE "WOULD BE USELESS"

Former Expert at Paris Also Testifies Secretary Declared in May That if Senate and People Realized What Treaty Meant They Would Defeat It.

SUBMITS PRESIDENT'S PLAN FOR A LEAGUE

Says Article 10 Was Only Part of Wilson's Draft Retained in Covenant—Tells of Investigating Conditions in Russia.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—William C. Bullitt of Philadelphia, formerly attached to the American peace mission, testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today that Secretary Lansing told him in Paris last May that "the Senate and the American people knew what the treaty meant, it would be defeated." The treaty was signed at Versailles June 28. "Mr. Lansing told me the day I resigned," the witness said, "that he was opposed to that part of the league covenant relating to a mandate for Armenia. He said he considered the Shantung award and the league of nations bad—that the league would be entirely useless; that the nations had arranged the final to suit themselves, and that England and France got what they wanted."

Knox Would Understand. "After saying he believed the Senate would defeat the treaty if it realized its meaning, Mr. Lansing said that he thought Secretary Knox really would understand the treaty; that Mr. Lodge would but that Mr. Lodge's position would become purely political."

"The cabinet members burst into a round of laughter and Bullitt said he begged to be excused from reading any more from the memorandum of his conversations."

It was near the close of an extended examination during which Bullitt explained that he had been sent to Russia to investigate conditions and had later resigned from the mission because he was out of sympathy with the treaty and the league covenant, that he was asked by Senator Lodge how the American delegates stood.

Secretary Lansing, Henry White and Gen. Bullitt said that in his opinion regarding the treaty, he said, Senator Lodge asked if the opinions were enthusiastic.

"I regret to say they were not," said Bullitt.

It was no secret in Paris, he declared, that Lansing, White and Bullitt objected vigorously to numerous provisions of the treaty.

When Senator Lodge asked he thought the Secretary's opinion on Shantung was known, Bullitt added: "I think Secretary Lansing was not at all enthusiastic about the league of nations."

President Wilson's original proposition on the league of nations, written by his own typewriter, was filed with the committee by Bullitt. The copy was presented to Bullitt by E. M. House and bore the inscription by the latter: "In appreciation of your help in the hour of need."

In answer to a question by Senator Knox, Bullitt said that in his final form the only proposal by the President that remained intact was Article 10.

Sensor Knox wanted to know if there was not a feeling of dissatisfaction at Paris at the way in which the American delegation's work was handled.

"There was little contact between the top of the delegation and the staff," Bullitt replied.

Sent to Russia by Lansing. Bullitt said he was sent to Russia by Secretary Lansing in February to obtain from the Soviet Government a statement of exact terms on which it would agree to stop fighting on all fronts.

Before proceeding Bullitt said he asked E. M. House a number of questions bearing on the American position and Lansing and House explained conditions as he found them and saying Lansing and others

3 DEATHS RESULT FROM THREE AUTO ACCIDENTS

Child, a Salesman and a Shoemaker Die—1919 Death List Brought to 60.

Three deaths, last night and this morning, from injuries in three different automobile accidents, brought the number of such fatalities, since Jan. 1, to 60.

John Grote, 22 years old, a salesman, of the La Salle Hotel, was killed at 11:50 p. m. when a seven-passenger car, running north on Michigan avenue at high speed, struck a smaller car running west on Bates street. Seven other men were injured.

Herman Cherry, 56, a shoemaker, of 624 Geraldine avenue, died at 7:30 a. m. in the City Hospital from a skull fracture. He was found lying in Florissant avenue, near Alcott avenue, at 9:30 p. m. Wednesday, just after an automobile had passed at high speed.

Child killed by Truck.

William Ligibel, 6, of 2346 Clark avenue, a pupil of the Pope School kindergarten, died in the City Hospital at 5 a. m. He was struck by a motor truck on Jefferson avenue, near Clark avenue, as he was on his way home from school yesterday afternoon.

The driver of the larger car, in the Michigan avenue accident, Thomas J. Bradford of 1301 State street, East St. Louis, was held today in the Carondelet Police Station. He was the only man in either car who was not severely injured. The injured men were taken to the city hospital.

Those in Bradford's car, and their injuries, were: William McCormack, 50, railroad foreman, 500 Veronica place, East St. Louis, skull fractured; Walter Schild, 42, 5612 Michigan avenue, skull fractured, right eyelid torn; Lee McCarthy, 37, 2900 Bond avenue, East St. Louis, nose broken, scalp wound; Albert Appledorn, 32, 215 North Sixth street, East St. Louis, scalp wound and internal injuries; and George Lamb, 28, of 421 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, scalp wound and left leg injured.

Three in Small Car.

Those in the other car were the driver, Joseph Gegan, 29, of 3507 Laclede avenue, right leg and shoulder fractured; Grote, who was killed; and Joseph Merkel, 37, of 5044 Delmar boulevard, right leg fractured.

The smaller car was knocked upon the sidewalk by the large car, and its engine was pushed from its frame and jammed back into the seating space. Both cars were overturned, but there was no explosion or fire. Some of the men were caught under the cars, and neighbors helped to get them out.

From the physical evidence of the wreck, policeman said the larger car must have been running at a high speed. They estimated the speed as 50 miles an hour. Bradford said he believed he was running about 15 miles an hour.

Attending Party.

Bradford said he and the others had been attending a party in the neighborhood, and that alcoholic drinks had been served, but that he had not taken any. The physicians' diagnosis of Appledorn, one of Bradford's injured passengers, stated that he was suffering from alcoholism in addition to his injuries.

The Florissant avenue accident has not been cleared up. Cherry, when found, was carried into a fire engine house, where neighbors recognized him. Others told of having seen a car run east at high speed, but did not see Cherry struck.

The accident to the Ligibel boy, on Jefferson avenue, occurred when, in crossing the street, he dodged a southbound automobile and stepped in the path of the truck, which was running north. The truck driver, Benjamin Seep, stopped and carried the boy to a drug store. Seep was arrested, and was released on bond.

Society Women Use New Wrinkle Remover

Since the discovery that a solution of ordinary axolite and witch hazel has a peculiar effect upon wrinkled skins, it has been learned that many prominent society women all over the country have used this simple home treatment with great success. The formula is: powdered axolite, one ounce, dissolved in witch hazel, one-half pint. Use daily as a wash lotion.

The beneficial action of this wash is felt at once. There's an agreeable refreshing sensation and feeling of exhalation. Pimples and all wrinkles are immediately softened and the skin soon becomes firmer and more youthful looking. No woman need hesitate to get the remedy at the drug store and make the remedy herself, for there are no harmful effects whatever.—ADV.

SECRET SERVICE MEN TRAIL FAKE $20 BILL

Hold Four Persons, Through Whose Hands Counterfeit Passed, for Further Investigation.

When Jacob Herman, a dry goods merchant of 1322 South Broadway, went to a bank to make a deposit yesterday, bank attendants intercepted a $20 bill that had been raised to a twenty by pasting numerals and words over the original. Secret service operatives were called, and they started on the bill's trail.

Herman said it was given to him by Mrs. Minnie Hamm of 2153 Grattan street, who came to the store, accompanied by Mrs. Caroline Rabbe of 1112 Dillon street, yesterday, and bought some goods. Mrs. Hamm said that was right—she got the money from her husband the day before, when he drew his pay.

Hamm corroborated this, and said he got the fake $20 when his pay check was cashed at the saloon of George Andreas, 1730 Market street. Andreas remembered cashing the check. The bill, he said, was part of $37,000 which he got Thursday from a bank to cash railroad pay checks. The bank teller didn't remember the bill.

Federal authorities said there was nothing to do but hold Andreas, Mr. and Mrs. Hamm and Mrs. Rabbe while the investigation was continued.

WILSON BLAMED FOR HIGH COST OF LIVING

Senator Johnson in Indianapolis Speech Says President Could Have Acted Last Winter.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 12.—
Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California, continuing his speech-making campaign in the Middle West in opposition to ratification of the league of nations covenant, in an address here last night declared that if responsibility for the high cost of living rests upon any agency or man, it rests upon the present national administration and Woodrow Wilson.
"President Wilson adds to his fear some harsh names, appeals to our material interests, and even taxes the two months that the league and treaty have been before the American people and Senate with the high cost of living," said Senator Johnson.
"He conveniently forgets the eight months he spent abroad, secretly pledging our resources and our manpower to European and Asiatic Governments. The two months of discussion by our people and our Senate in the open of what he discussed secretly for eight months has had, of course, no bearing upon, and the responsible discussion in the future cannot possibly affect, the high cost of living. If any single individual can be charged with responsibility for the high cost of living that man is Woodrow Wilson. The living costs in December and January last were substantially what they are today. Mr.
Wilson then had exactly the same laws he now invokes. He had neither time nor inclination to deal with a problem then practically as acute as it is now.

Quotes December Address.
"He never even touched the subject, except patronizing as an ephemeral ill of no consequence or importance. He makes his solution depend now upon the immediate ratification of his treaty. He would frighten us by a cheap and specious statement, devoid of economic logic and wanting in any sound reason. He covers his own dereliction by an unfounded counter charge. Remember his address to Congress in December. The moment we knew the armistice had been signed, we took the harden off. It is surprising how fast the process of return to a peace footing has moved in the three weeks since the fighting stopped. His idea of reconstruction then was, 'It will not be easy to direct it any better than it will direct itself.' When he had ample time for action last December and might have prevented the subsequent continuance of high prices, these are his words: 'Our people do not wait to be coached and led. Any leading strings we might seek to put them in would speedily become hopelessly entangled, because they would pay no attention to them and go their own way. The American business man is of quick initiative.' All that time we had a competent Federal Food Administration completely organized throughout the nation.

Mr. Wilson deliberately scrapped this vast organization, which might have removed a part, at least, of the causes of high prices. Now, months after he has dismissed the Federal an state agencies, he is calling them together again to deal with the question. The ratification of the treaty may increase exports; but increase in exports will not reduce prices at home."

Opposes Article Ten.
Speaking of article 10 of the covenant of the league, Senator Johnson, after quoting President Wilson's interpretation of the section, said:

"It makes America underwrite every territorial grab of every other nation, every wrong and injustice done peoples, every bargain by which human beings have been handed about from one sovereignty to another, every violation of natural right and self-determination, every oppression of the strong over the weak. Naively the President remarks that secret treaties hampered him at the peace conference and embarrassed the whole settlement. Inferentially, he concedes the wickedness of these secret treaties, but he was neither hampered nor embarrassed to such a degree as to cause him to stand manfully and courageously for his officially expressed principles. Not only did he abandon his principles and abjectly surrender his idealism, but he became a part of the secret treaties he denounces when he united in making them the basis of action at Paris."

There were cries of "You are right; you are right," when Senator Johnson insisted that American troops should immediately be brought back from Russia. He was frequently interrupted in the course of his attack on the league of nations by cheers.

Senator Johnson began with this declaration: "I am here and you are here because Americanism still lives."

"President Wilson has said the league was being opposed by little Americans," he said. "I confess I am a little American, but I am all American."

Soldiers Fought for America.
"Our soldiers, who won the war, fought for America, for you and for me and not for any league of nations. Friends of the league admit it is imperfect, but say we must try it because it is the only league of nations presented. Under that theory I suppose if we had rotten eggs and that egg was rotten, we ought to eat it because it was the only egg we had."

He referred to the "official propaganda" issued by the national administration at Washington, and added:

"They pick the taxpayers' pockets to poison the public mind."

When he asked the crowd if it favored the league, there were loud shouts of "no."

The audience laughed when the speaker referred to William H. Taft as "a distinguished ex-President whom many respect but none follow."

Senator Johnson left at midnight.

PURCHASE BY CITY OF PARK LAND ON OUTSKIRTS IS URGED

Spanish Lake and Missouri River Among Tracts Mentioned at Rotary Club Luncheon.

Purchase by the city of districts on the outskirts of St. Louis and their development into public parks was advocated by John H. Gundlach, former President of the old City Council, in an address at the Rotary Club luncheon at Hotel Statler yesterday.

Among the districts he suggested for purchase were Spanish Lake, Creve Coeur Lake forest land, the Missouri River bluffs and the forest land in the vicinity of the Chain of Rocks.

"Had we waited in our purchase of Forest, O'Fallon and Carondelet Parks until the population had grown up to them, we would never have had any of them, or if we had secured them later the cost would have been tremendous, with much of the natural beauty destroyed," he said.

"Boston has 10,000 acres of outer parks; Essex County, N. J., 4000 acres; Providence, 3000; Chicago, 5000, and New York, 21,000; and we should have as much as the others."

$10,000 ORDERED PAID WOMAN FROM ESTATE OF C. R. JUDGE

Miss Ogie Abandons Claim for Dower Interest and Accepts Payment for Services as Nurse.

The payment of $10,000 by the Charles R. Judge estate to Kathryn Ogie, also known as Judge, was approved yesterday by Probate Judge Holtkamp.

The woman, asserting she is the widow of Judge, who was president of the Judge & Dolph Drug Co., filed a suit for one-half of his $450,000 estate, which he willed to collateral heirs. Several weeks ago it was announced that the Judge heirs had recognized Miss Ogie's claim and effected a compromise.

The settlement yesterday showed that she abandoned her claim for a dower interest and that the claim was allowed for her seven months' services as nurse, attendant and housekeeper to Judge, just prior to his death. She said $10,000 was a reasonable amount for such services.

Reports Maid and Jewelry Missing.

Mrs. Eugene Smith, 511 Central avenue, Clayton, reported to the county authorities last night that a red-haired woman whom she had hired as a maid the day before, had disappeared and that jewelry valued at $500 was also missing.

Mrs. Smith's description of the woman tallies with that of a maid who worked for two families in University City and who disappeared in a similar manner.

POLICE GUARD HOME FATHER KILL

Man Suffering From Mania Escapes From Sanatorium

A constant police force maintained for 15 days at the home of Mrs. Agnes Davis, 4454 North Broadway, because Mrs. Davis, 45 years old, confined at the city hospital two years suffering from mania, has been at large.

Davis' brother, O'Fallon street, obtained the permission to take her for an automobile and did not return.

Police have been on the watch since that time, but have not been able to locate her.

Mrs. Davis applied for protection, because her husband's chief physician, Dr. J. H. Davis, said she was to be killed.

POLICE GUARD HOME LEST FATHER KILL HIS FAMILY

Suffering From Homicidal Mania Escapes From City Sanitarium.

A constant police guard has been maintained for 15 days over the home of Mrs. Agnes Davis and her four children at 444½ Maffitt avenue because Mrs. Davis' husband, Arthur, 45 years old, who had been confined at the city sanitarium for two years suffering from homicidal mania, has been at large since Aug. 27.

Davis' brother, Christ, 1823 Fallon street, obtained permission at the sanitarium to take his brother for an automobile ride on Aug. 27 and did not return with him. The police have been unable to learn where he has escaped from Christ, who says that he does not know where his brother is.

Mrs. Davis appealed for police protection, because she said, her husband's chief thought in his mania was to kill those he loved best. A search for Davis has been begun.

CHASES COYOTE IN THE STREETS

Man Catches Animal Under House on North Taylor Avenue.

Henry Sievers was sitting with members of his family on the front porch of his home at 512½ North Taylor avenue, last night, when he exclaimed: "There goes a wolf," and jumped up and ran down the street. The others on the porch looked apprehensively at each other, and followed Sievers.

A block further down they found him backing out from under a house, on his knees, holding in his hands a grayish animal that was trying to bite him. Sievers carried it home, where the expert services of Justice George Grassmuck, a neighbor were called. He pronounced it a coyote, about a foot and a half tall.

3 MEN ROBBED IN GARAGE

Robbers Escape Down Alley in Automobile After Getting $142.

Three men in an automobile drove up to the garage behind the home of Dominic Smith, 4112 Sarpy avenue, about 10 o'clock this morning and, drawing revolvers, forced Smith and two companions, Clifford Esterbrook, 2501 North Broadway, and Roy E. Bridgman, 1441 De Soto street, to stand against a wall. They took $12 from Smith, $50 from Esterbrook and $10 from Bridgman. The robbers drove east in the alley and escaped. The victims told the police they were employees of the Wabash Railroad Co.

NATIONALIZATION OF MINES AS PRINCIPLE FAVORED BY MINERS

Workers Also Voted Unanimously for Six-Hour Day and Five-Day Week in Coal Properties.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 12.—Nationalization of mines as a general principle was approved by the convention of the United Mine Workers of America yesterday with only one dissenting vote, the objector being shouted down when he declared nationalization an impossibility. He later explained that he only meant impossible for the present.

The convention voted with the same unanimity for the six-hour day and five-day week in coal mines to be incorporated in demands presented to the mine operators at the joint wage conference at Buffalo Sept. 25, but deferred discussion of specific wage demands until next week.

During the afternoon Seymour Steedman of Chicago, counsel for Eugene V. Debs, addressed the delegates on behalf of Debs, Rose Pastor Stokes and others convicted under the espionage act.

The convention stands adjourned today on account of the funeral of John Mitchell, which will be attended by a large delegation from the convention.

BERLIN'S WAVE OF GAMBLING LIKELY TO BE TERMINATED

Order by Minister of Defense Prohibits for Suppression of All Private and Public Clubs.

BERLIN, Thursday, Sept. 11.—Greater Berlin's wave of gambling will terminate on Sunday, Sept. 14, if an order issued by Gustave Noske, Minister of Defense, suppressing public and private clubs, is strictly enforced.

The provisions of this long-expected order are sweeping. Violations of it are punishable by fine or imprisonment, and no loopholes are left for pseudo clubs under camouflage titles.

The city is now honeycombed by such public and private resorts, fully 300 fashionable apartments in the West End being occupied by such establishments. The order applies only to the military district of Greater Berlin. In an effort to stop the widespread prevalence of gambling, Prussian authorities raided North Sea and Baltic watering places a week ago.

DANIELS ARRIVES AT VICTORIA

By the Associated Press.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 12.—With shore batteries and ships' guns booming their salutes in a drizzling rain, the U. S. S. New Mexico and Arkansas, with Secretary Daniels and Admiral Hugh Rodman aboard, conveyed by a division of destroyers, dropped anchor in Victoria harbor late yesterday.

Shortly afterward the official reception party came aboard the Arkansas. Heading the party was Premier John Oliver of British Columbia.

Declaring that Canada and the United States had set an example for world emulation through their "neighborliness" and the treaty which forbids fortifications between the countries, Secretary Daniels said he believed it presaged "the day, in the full fruition of the league of nations," when other countries would feel safe security in international justice to abolish their powerful armies and discontinue the building of navies.

Social Items

A wedding of interest will take place tomorrow evening when Miss Emily H. Beck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Beck of Lockwood avenue, Webster-Groves, will become the bride of A. W. Hamilton of Chicago.

Owing to the recent death of Mr. Beck's father, the arrangements will be very simple. The Rev. J. Courtney Jones will perform the ceremony at 8:30 o'clock at the Emmanuel Episcopal Church of Webster-Groves and a small reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride will wear a gown of ivory satin trimmed with Duchess lace, and her veil of tulle and lace will be arranged in a cap effect. Her flowers will be a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bride's sister, Miss Katherine Beck, will attend her as maid of honor and Miss Isabel Perry of Maryland will be bridesmaid. Miss Beck will wear a frock of apricot taffeta and Miss Perry a frock of blue taffeta. They will both wear hats of brown tulle and carry colonial bouquets in pastel shades.

Attending the bridegroom will be George Peabody of Chicago, as best man, and Horace W. Beck Jr., Charles G. Hines of Maryland, George Reed and Frank Sammon of Chicago, groomsmen and ushers. Among the out-of-town guests will be Mrs. R. F. Gundry and her son, Richard Gundry of Boston, and Mrs. W. F. Hines of Baltimore. After a wedding trip Mr. Hamilton and his bride will go to Chicago to reside.

Miss Isabel January, daughter of the late Mrs. Jesse January, has arrived from San Remo, Italy, and will be at the Westmoreland hotel, during her stay in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Baradine of the St. Regis Apartments have returned from Kennebunkport, Me., where they had been since early summer.

You Can Make Your Complexion Soft, White and Youthful

By the Use of the Popular BLACK and WHITE Beauty Treatment.

Women everywhere want to look well. The savage mauls her skin, the present day beauty in a civilized woman is a soft, velvety skin and a radiant complexion. To attain a beautiful skin, sticky, greasy face creams, lotions, powders or rouge should not be used. Such cosmetics only serve to temporarily hide or mask the unsightly skin. You can remove pimples, insect bites, freckles, tan, sunburn and make your skin smooth and soft by the use of the Black and White Beauty Treatment, which consists of Ointment and Soap. The Ointment is used at night—rubbed on the next morning. It is different from cosmetics because it takes off or removes skin blemishes—does not cover or hide them.

Both Black and White Ointment and Soap can be bought at all good drug stores for 25c a package, or the manufacturers will send them direct post-paid on receipt of price.

Freemailed literature can be had if you will clip and mail this to Black and White, Box 918, Memphis, Tenn.

REPORT OPPOSES GREATER PART OF CITY BOND ISSUE

Lawyer Prepares Objections to $22,000,000 Proposal for West End Business Men's Association.

A report opposing the greater part of the municipal expenditures proposed in the bill for a $22,000,000 bond issue, now before the Board of Aldermen, has been prepared for the West End Business Men's Association by H. A. Loevy, a lawyer, chairman of a special committee appointed by the association to consider this subject.

A large part of Loevy's report is an attack on the item of $9,450,000, in the proposed bond issue, for improvement of the River des Peres. He also opposes the items of park and playground extension, $2,560,000; municipal farm, $620,000; industrial farm buildings, $156,000, and municipal auditorium, $900,000.

He recommends the item of $2,850,000 for the free bridge approach and rail and river terminals, which, he said, seems necessary to make the bridge and the new city docks useful. "Having foolishly erected a bridge which is absolutely useless for railroad purposes, and which costs us $250 a day interest," he says, "we must go ahead and make it useful if we can, regardless of cost."

On the other items, amounting to one-fourth of the whole issue, Loevy makes no recommendation, favorable or unfavorable. These are the items of sewers, grade crossings and viaducts, street openings and widenings, fire engine houses and equipment, new morgue, additional jail cells, municipal garage and maintenance of streets and highways.

Attacks Des Peres Item.

The River des Peres project is declared by Loevy to be "a stretch, as the river itself is." He declares that of the area of the Des Peres watershed is 70,000 acres, only 15,000 acres is within the city limits, the remainder being in St. Louis County. About one-sixth of the county, he says, drains into the Des Peres. "It does not appear," Loevy says, "that the county is asked to pay one cent of the $9,450,000, although less than one-fourth of the area is inside the city limits. The people of the city are smilingly asked to tax themselves for more than three-fourths of the amount, that is, about $7,125,000, solely for the benefit of property owners in St. Louis County."

"Have you ever heard of the rich farmers and wealthy landowners of St. Louis County taxing themselves one penny for our benefit?" "An effort was made in 1914 to provide a sanitary district by concurrent action of the citizens of the city and the county. The city authorities passed the ordinance, but the judges of the St. Louis County Court and the people of St. Louis county have failed to take any action at all.

"In 1905 a law, introduced by Senator Gardner of St. Louis County, was passed, providing for just such a proceeding, enabling any city having over 300,000 inhabitants to take joint action with the adjacent county for the construction of sewers, drainage of lands, etc., in both the city and the county. This law is article 8 of the chapter of drains and levees, revised statutes of 1909.

"But why should they pay a penny when they dig out that the people of St. Louis are probably willing to be such fools as to pay $7,125,000 for their benefit, and saddle on themselves not only the amount they should pay as their share of the cost, but also the county's share? Nobody can blame them if they can put it over on St. Louisans, who are already staggering under a load of taxation, which is being added to almost daily.

"Why is no attempt made now to secure the co-operation of the county, and if the county fails to pay its just proportion of its expense, why should the city people be the sacrificial goats? When we sought to get a law permitting a vote on the question of annexation of about one-third of the county to the city, the county beat us without much effort. Why? Because, if the plan carried, that part of the county which would be in the city limits would be taxed for its just and proper share of the cost of the Des Peres sewer. They are willing to flood and smelt us out, but not willing to pay one cent for the benefit they get by owning on the side of the watershed and not at the bottom."

Loevy, in his report, then discusses at length the legal questions involved in the construction of district sewers by means of special tax bills. He draws the conclusion that the city already has paid large amounts for the county's benefit.

Favors Increased School Tax. In regard to the park and playground, Municipal Farm and Industrial Farm building items, Loevy says they are not to be recommended under present financial and living conditions. The Municipal Auditorium, he says, is admitted to be illegal under the charter. As to the items on which he makes no recommendation, he says they are matters usually classified as necessities, but that he has determined whether all the items are essential, or whether the amounts assigned to them are reasonable. He hence leaves them to the judgment of the members of the association.

In contrast to the items of municipal expenditure which he opposes, Loevy urges the members of the association to vote for the proposed increase in the school tax, to provide more pay for teachers. "It adds to supreme necessity, much more than our burdens," he says, "but it is a any of these bond issue propositions."

More than 2000 persons attended the block party held at 6000 Suburban avenue last Tuesday evening and the affair, together with a show given a few evenings previously by the promoters of the block party, netted $91.80 for the benefit of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund.

The American Musicians Union donated the services of a 25-piece jazz band and dancing on the pavement was the chief feature of the evening, varied with vocal selections by singers from the Witmark Music Publishing Co. and the Broadway Music Corporation. The children of the neighborhood erected and presided over half a dozen artistic booths and sold soda water and ice cream cones until their supply was exhausted.

Cakes were donated by women of the block and the Al Finkel Furniture Co. gave a manicure set which was disposed of during the evening. The arrangements were under the management of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Rives, assisted by Mrs. Kieley, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Oster, Florence Teschmacher, May Connors, Mary McCarthy, Helen Gorman, Helen Oster, Margaret and Dorothy Stubbs, Loretta O'Leary, Ruth and Helen Kieley, Lucia Beck, Helen Hartsock and Martha Harrison.

Show at Affton Nets $5.
A special vote of thanks is extended by them to the people of the neighborhood for their assistance and to the St. Louis Cone Co. and other contributors.

A show for the benefit of the poor tables was given under the management of Lucille Bringer, Route 7, Affton, Mo. Several children whose names will be published as soon as a corrected list can be obtained, assisted in the affair, and $5 was made for the Milk Fund.

A show at 5207 Garfield avenue brought $4.78 for the fund. Those who participated in the performance were Jeanette and Neoma Hertzman, Frieda Zigel, Margaret Erman, Melvin Hertzman and Sidney Zigel. Five girls of the 3000 block on Dickson street conducted a lemonade stand which made $2.57. The girls were: Sadie and Mollie Rabenowitz, Celia and Rose Slavovskiy and Sarah Edelstein.

Pine Lawn Workers Earn $2.15.
Glen May and Frances Ferris, 5225 Enright avenue, managed a lemonade stand at Union and Delmar and earned $2.55 for the fund.

A show at 2831 Kosciusko street by Estelle, Myrtle and Lorraine Costmeyer, assisted by Lillian Mennard and Paul and Marie Kobelt, brought $2.20.

Ruth Rodiger, Arabelle Holloway and Mildred Belle gave a show at 4016 Council Grove avenue, Pine Lawn, for the benefit of the Milk and Ice Fund and earned $2.15.

Cash contributions during the last three days were as follows: "Jay Jay," $5; P. C. Compton, $10; Agnes X. Luvarek, $1; Mrs. M. Goldman, $133 Washington boulevard, $5; R. W. Bickelhaup, 3536 Humphrey street, $1, and Jack Henning, $10.

KOREAN CITY WHERE BOMB WAS THROWN AT GOVERNOR OCCUPIED

Seoul, Overrun by Japanese Troops, Virtually in State of Siege—Would Be Assassinated Still at Large.

TOKIO, Wednesday, Sept. 10.—Since the attempt to assassinate Baron Saito, Governor of Korea at Seoul, on Sept. 2, every part of that city has been occupied by Japanese troops and the place is virtually in a state of siege. The would-be assassin is still at large, although a number of persons suspected are under arrest. The bomb thrown at Baron Saito exploded with terrific violence and an inspection of fragments has shown the missile was scientifically constructed. It is the opinion of the police that the bomb was brought into this country, probably from Manchuria.

The attack followed days of agitation in Seoul, the demonstrations being marked by flag raising, public meetings and the closing of shops. An independent newspaper was issued on Aug. 22, the 23rd anniversary of the annexation of Korea by Japan as an avowed expression of protest. The day was called "National Disgrace Day" in the publication.

SHORT WEIGHT IN OATS DELIVERED TO POLICE

Three Negroes Arrested When They Admit Taking Grain From Wagon.

Information that the Police Department has been cheated in the measure of oats delivered at the stables of the mounted district has been placed in the hands of Judge Advocate Bishop of the department for investigation.

The fraud was disclosed when Ike Logan, a negro, of 706 North Jefferson avenue, went to the Carr street station Aug. 12 and reported that a wagonload of oats then on its way to the mounted station was nearly 1000 pounds under weight. Capt. Hanna was notified by telephone and when the wagon arrived he had it weighed and found it was 890 pounds short.

Logan also informed the police that another wagonload of oats delivered at the mounted station the same day also was about 1000 pounds under weight. This information could not be verified because at the time Logan reported it the first wagon had been loaded and the oats dumped into a bin with other oats.

Four Men Questioned. Following the discovery of the shortage two negro drivers and their two helpers, employed by the W. A. Miller Hay and Grain Co., 103 South Third street, which had the contract for supplying the oats, were taken to police headquarters and questioned.

Three of the negroes, James Sides, 42 years old, 1421 Linden street; Cornelius Little, 40, of 1609 Linden street; and William T. White, 69, of 2704 Morgan street, admitted having removed five sacks of oats, valued at about $26, from the wagon which was found to be under weight when it reached the mounted station.

The negroes said the wagon was loaded the night before their delivery and taken to public scales on Tyler street, where certificates showing their correct weight were issued. The wagon was then taken to the warehouse of the company, the negroes said, and held until the following morning. The five sacks were dumped off, the negroes said, when the wagon was at the warehouse.

Logan informed the police that the oats had been taken from the wagon under instructions from Jacob J. Miller, secretary of the company. The other negroes said that Miller had seen them removing the oats but that they had not heard him give any instructions to do the work. Miller was summoned to police headquarters, where he was confronted by the negroes. He denied having had anything to do with the alleged larceny and said that the negroes were implicating him in an effort to shield themselves.

Had Discharged Informer. W. A. Miller, head of the firm, told the police that he had discharged Logan, who was in charge of the wagon from which the oats had been taken, in the Court of Criminals on his way to the Mounted Station and had placed another driver in charge of the wagon. Logan became angered, Miller said, and threatened to "get even" with him. Miller, after being discharged, went to the Carr Street Station and reported the shortage.

The case was submitted to the Prosecuting Attorney and warrants charging petty larceny were issued against Sides, Little and White. Prosecutor Siders declined to entertain the charge made by the negroes against Jacob Miller. He said that their statements were conflicting and not in the least convincing. He also expressed the opinion that the negroes were merely implicating their employer in order to defend themselves.

Secretary James C. Espy of the Police Board, who, in the absence of the Commissioners on vacation, is supervising the purchase of supplies, heard the statements of the negroes and accompanied them to the warrant office. He took an active part in the examination of the witnesses and expressed the opinion that the negroes were guilty of a conspiracy to steal the Police Department oats and had tried, in an effort to exonerate themselves, to place the responsibility on Miller. The case of the three negroes has been set for trial Sept. 24 before Judge Miller in the Court of Criminal Correction. Judge Bishop said that he would attend the trial and assist the prosecution.

Will These Remedies Cure Our Railroad Ills?

The railroads and what is to be done with them undoubtedly are the biggest domestic problem that confronts the American people today. Many measures of relief have been advanced—so many, in fact, that the average man and woman find it difficult to follow them and understand clearly what they aim to accomplish and how.

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week analyzes and presents in simple form the provisions of the two bills that have awakened the most comment—the Cummins Bill and the Plumb plan. Five minutes' reading will give you all the facts—and a few additional minutes will acquaint you with the gist of what the American press says about them. When you consider that the future hours of labor, wages, and conditions in many other industries will undoubtedly hinge upon whatever plan is adopted for the railroads, you can see how important it is for every intelligent citizen to know the facts presented in this article. There are also numerous striking cartoons representing different angles of thought upon this vital subject.

Other news features in this week's "Digest" that will engage your interest are:

The People Who Read "The Digest"

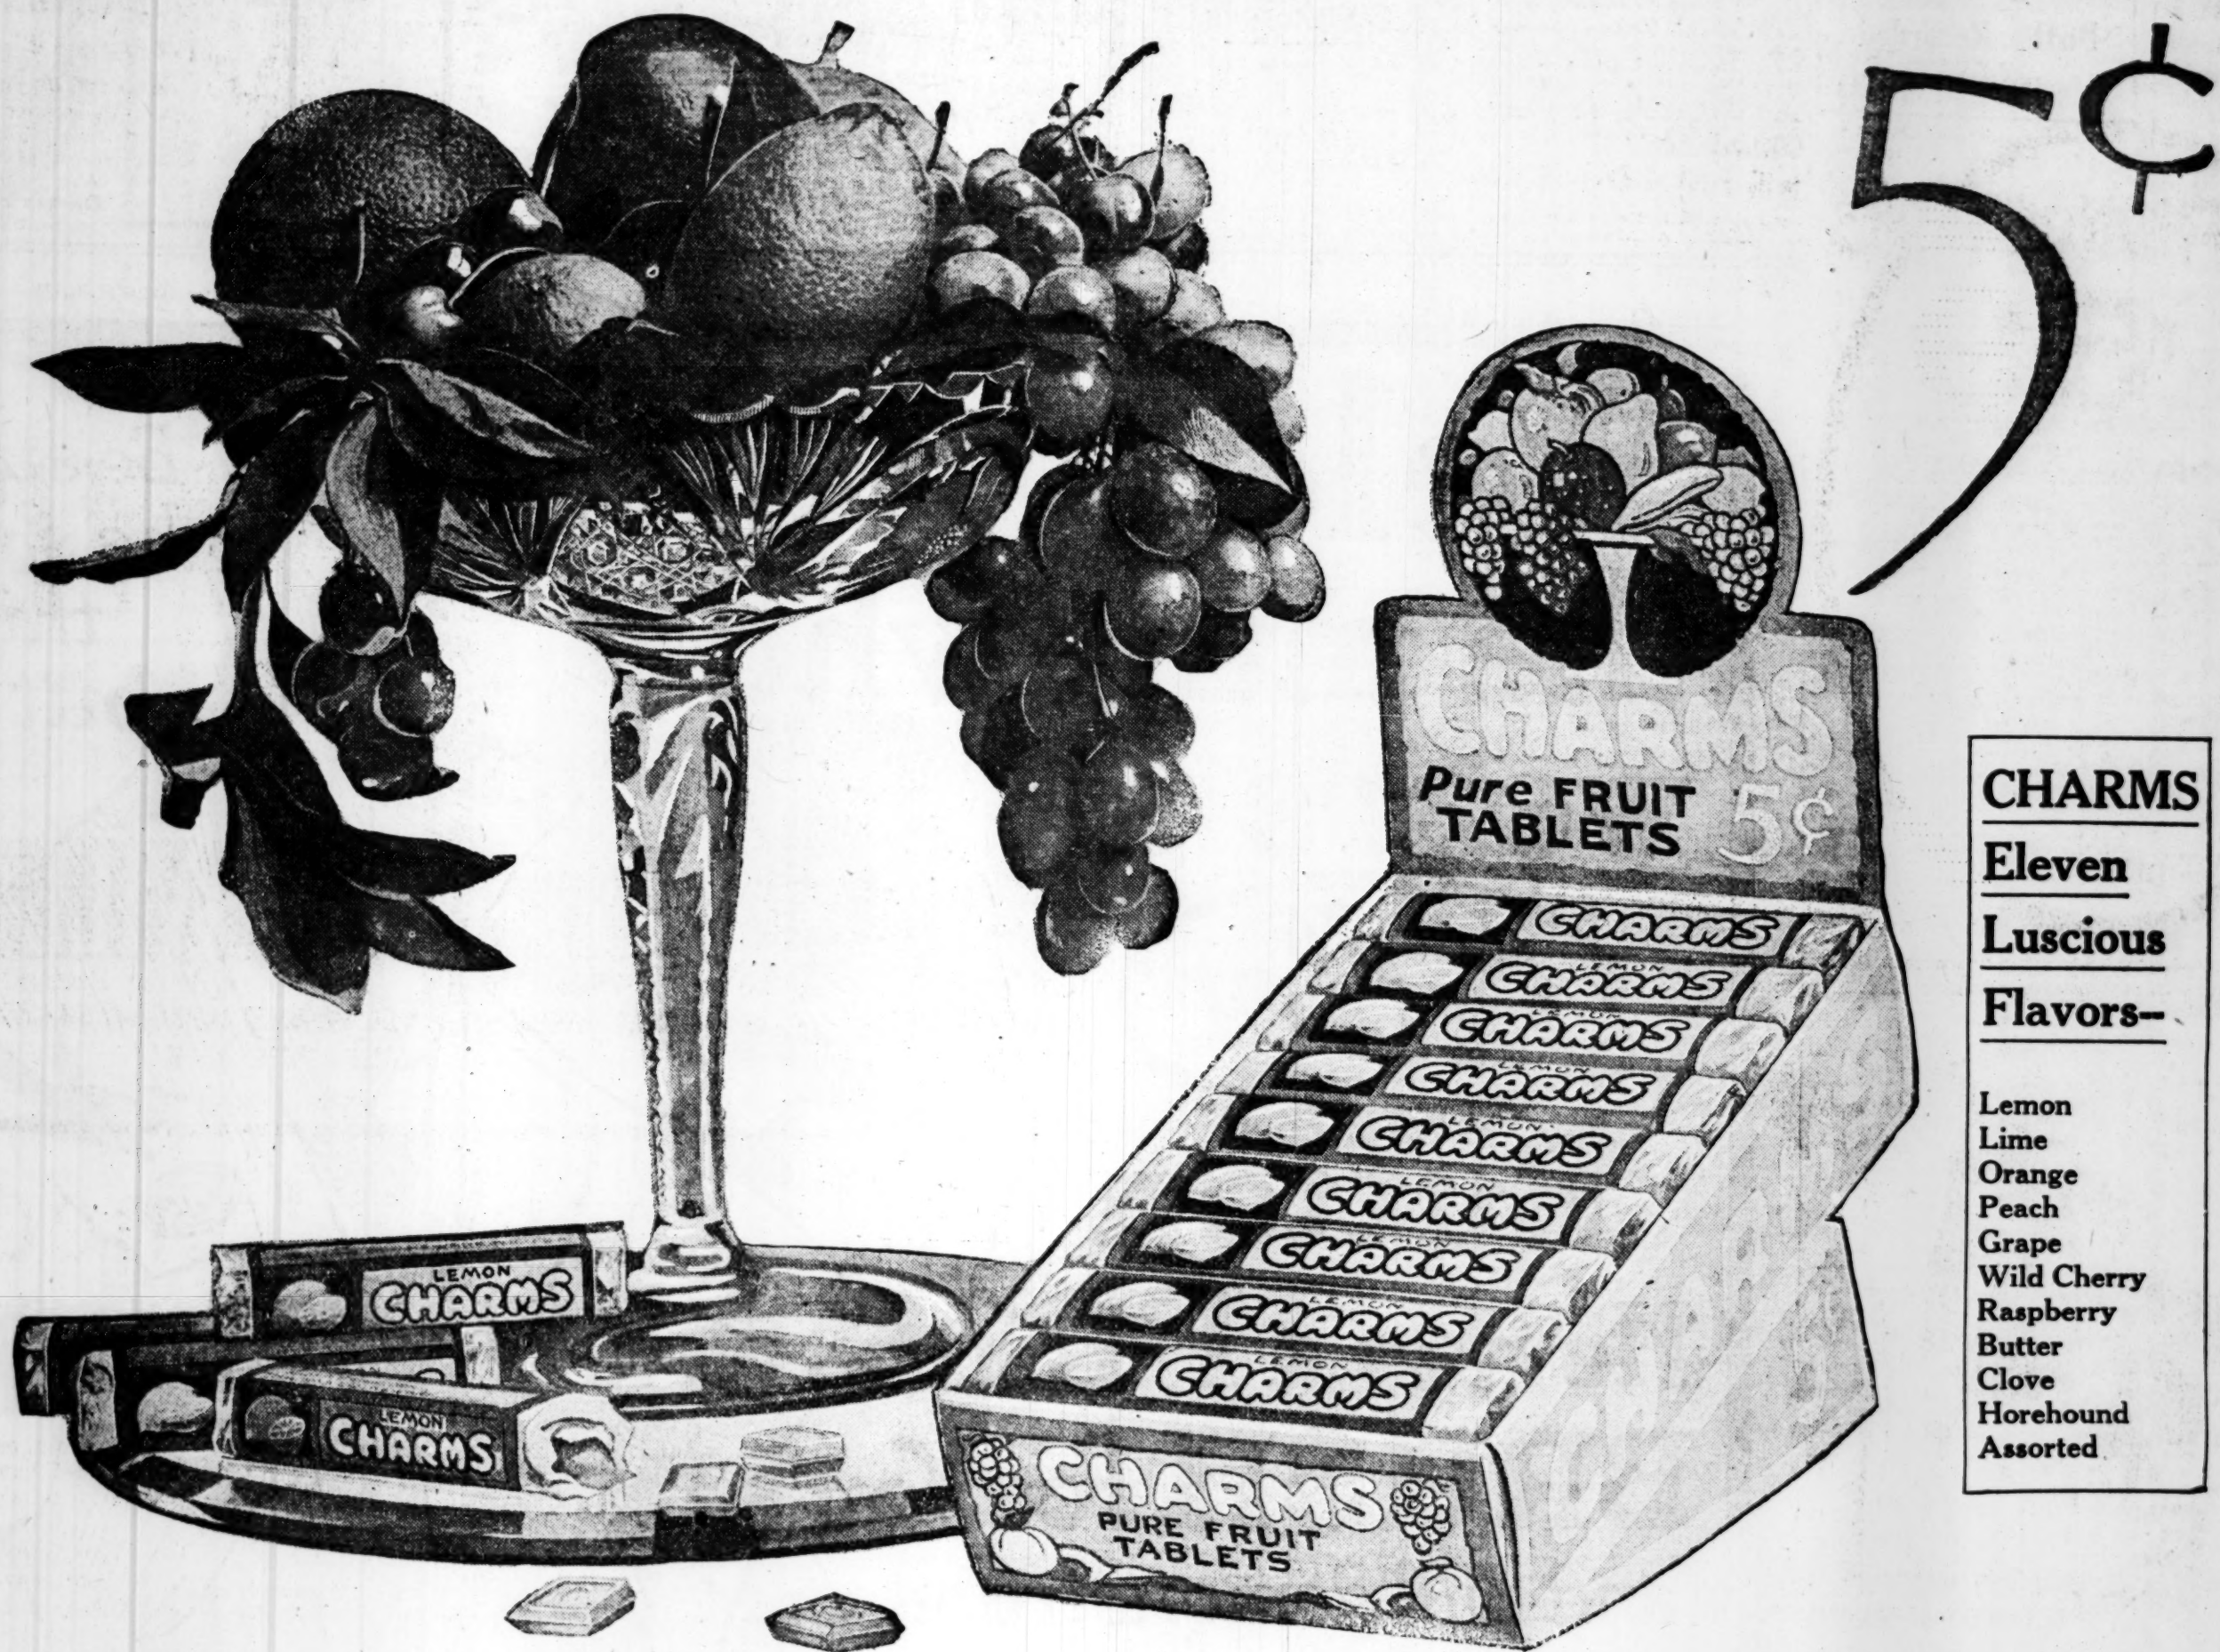

The best test of any periodical is the class of its readers. Character in a magazine or a newspaper attracts men and women of standing and judgment as inevitably as a flower draws the bee, and for the same reason. It suits their taste. Glance around you in the train, on the street-cars, in hotel lobbies, wherever your fellow humans congregate, and note the people who read THE LITERARY DIGEST. They are the best type. They buy "The Digest" because they know it is accurate, impartial, wholesome, comprehensive and up-to-date, because they can take it home to their children with confidence, and because it covers the world's news as no other periodical does. Are you with them?

PERSHING PLEDGES HIS AID TO AMERICAN LEGION

But He Tells Audience of 8000 at Soldiers' Reception It Must Avoid Politics.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Gen. Pershing spent an hour last night at Madison Square Garden with his "fellow-soldiers" of the great war.

Eight thousand men and women greeted him, two thirds the number that could have been seated in the big auditorium. Half, perhaps, of those who were there were veterans of the army and navy, and what seemed like a good half of those, in turn, were women, the two biggest delegations there being Dolly Madison Post, No. 115, and Barbara Fritchie Post, No. 43, of the American Legion. These posts are made up of yeomanettes and nurses.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the American Legion, which will start a campaign for 1,000,000 members next Monday. To this campaign and to the Legion itself Gen. Pershing pledged his "encouragement as long as it stands for true Americanism, as long as it keeps its skirts clean and free from petty politics." This proved a more than popular proposal, for through the speech of Henry D. Lindley, the chairman, there had been hearty applause for his declarations that the legion was not a "party" organization, and is not going to be allied with any party in the United States, and that "that party which does not stand for 100 per cent Americanism, be that party what it may, will receive the condemnation of those who compose the American Legion."

British Statement Assailed.

But it was not these things that provoked the greatest enthusiasm of the evening. That came in the course of the speech of Luke Lea, former United States Senator from Tennessee, who was a Colonel in the Thirty-eighth Division, and who once sought permission to lead an expedition for the kidnapping of the Kaiser.

"An eminent British military authority," said Lea, "was recently credited with the statement that the German army which the American forces met and defeated, was a broken army, tired by the hard blows struck by the French and British for four long and weary years."

"He that met it may, if the German army, which met its first real rebuff at Chateau-Thierry, Belleau Woods and Soissons at the hands of the American doughboy was tired, it was tired by its mad chase of Gough's Fifth British army to the shores of the Channel."

"Tired!" cried the audience and whooped for nearly a minute.

But there was very different reception—the patting of not more than two or three pairs of hands—when Lea continued his interrupted sentence:

"If broken, it (the German army) was broken through over-exertion in hurrying the French veterans back on the very gates of Paris."

But there was applause for the conclusion of the statement:

"For in the early summer of 1918, when the American army came actively to the allies' rescue the Channel ports were about to fall into the shadow of the Boche. Had it been, the threshold of Paris."

"The American Legion welcomes you, Gen. Pershing, on account of your potential usefulness for the present and the future," said Lea, turning with outstretched arms toward Gen. Pershing.

Gen. Pershing remained expressionless during Col. Lea's address, while the latter launched a vigorous appeal for a foreign policy for the United States which would "insure safety to our borders and protection to the people of Mexico equally from organized lawlessness and the Green colonization, even at the cost of a sacrifice of policing and, if necessary, Americanizing devastated and divided Mexico."

Would Deplore Political Trend.

In his address at the Legion reception, Gen. Pershing said the American Legion should cherish and foster the lessons in patriotism which have been brought home to the American people during the last two years.

"Our country is founded on laws and not on men, and it should be the purpose of this organization to stand up for the principles of the Constitution. I should deplore it if there were any chance of the American Legion becoming a political tool in the hands of political aspirants."

Before he attended the Legion reception Gen. Pershing received information from a group of newspaper men, recalling in the interview that today is the first anniversary of the start of the great St. Mihiel drive—the American army's first independent thrust at the German lines.

Speaking of the huge parade, Gen. Pershing said:

"Multiply the division you saw on parade yesterday by 40 and add some artillery and airplanes, and you have a notion of what our American army abroad looked like. Then add the service of supply to that, about 40 per cent more, and you have a notion of the size of the entire American Expeditionary Force."

"I think it is important that the American people get that impression."

Kills Negroes and Himself.

Frank Owen, 27 years old, 317 South Garden avenue, a negro, shot and killed Roxie McPherson, 27, a negro, in her home at 2801 Scott avenue yesterday noon and then ended his own life. Owen recently had been discharged from the army.

TRAFFIC VIOLATOR COMPELLED TO READ LAW ALOUD IN COURT

Judge Mix Orders Driver to Go Through Performance Three Times and Fines Him $10.

William Stech, 4562 Newport avenue, who was charged with having driven an automobile past a street car while the gates were open, today was compelled by Police Judge Mix to read that section of the ordinance relating to his offense out loud in court three times. In addition, he was fined $10.

William T. Garvey, a driver for the Union Electric Light and Power Co., charged with driving 30 miles an hour, said that he was on trouble calls and "stepped on the accelerator."

"When you stepped on the accelerator you stepped on the law," Judge Mix said. "Thirty dollars." Lawrence Woods, 2033 Morgan street, charged with driving at 28 miles an hour, pleaded that it was his first offense.

"You mean it was the first time you were caught," Judge Mix corrected. "Twenty-eight dollars. Next time it will cost you $2 a mile."

Robert Kilroy, 1223 Kraft avenue, was fined $25 for having driven 28 miles an hour.

Miscellaneous Directed to Introduce Measure Providing for $5000 Fine and 5 Years' Imprisonment.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The House Judiciary Committee has directed Representative Dyer of Missouri to introduce a bill making the transportation of a stolen automobile in interstate commerce subject to $5000 fine and five years' imprisonment.

Concealment of a stolen car while in interstate movement would be subject to similar punishment. Formal action recommending passage of the law will be taken later.

MINERS' FINES TO BE REFUNDED

Assessments Will Be Returned to Men Who Go Back to Work.

David Wilson of Belleville, member of the executive board of the Illinois United Mine Workers for the Twelfth District, issued a statement yesterday that all strike fines have been ordered refunded to the men who have returned to work and that it is also the plan to refund the fines to the other strikers who return to their jobs immediately. The Shiloh and Little Oak mines will refund $3000 in fines next Wednesday. These mines belong to the Southern Coal and Mining Co.

DOCTORS USE CALOTABS FOR COLDS AND FLU

Influenza and Grippe, Like Ordinary Colds, Require Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets That Are Nauseless, Safe and Sure.

Physicians and druggists claim that the great epidemic of influenza has conclusively demonstrated that the quickest relief for a cold and the best preventive of influenza and pneumonia is to keep the liver active so that the digestive organs may be in perfect condition. For this purpose Calotabs, the new nausealess calomel tablets that are free from the sickening and weakening effects, is the most thorough and dependable, as well as the most agreeable laxative.

Calotabs have the special advantage of not making the patient sick and weak, as they do not upset the digestion and appetite. One Calotab at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea, nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure, or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast.

For your protection Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price 25c. Sold by all druggists and your grocer back if you are not delighted with them.—ADV.

Talks

The Secret of Charm.

A YOUNG girl of 15 writes me that she is homely, that she has no accomplishments, that she cannot talk interestingly, and is bashful, and self-conscious, and she wants to know what she can do to make herself attractive and popular.

My advice to such a girl is first to cheer up, and to remember that she is at the ugly duckling age, and that many an ugly duckling develops into a swan. Also I would remind her that good looks are largely a matter of vanity and that the reason that ugly women are so ugly is mainly because they do not think that it is worth while to try to beautify themselves.

If you will observe you will see that a beauty takes ten times the trouble with her appearance that the plain woman does, yet Heaven knows the plain woman needs the assistance of all of the arts of the toilet more than does her pulchritudinous sister. The beauty will take hours in combing her hair and see that every lock is just in place. The ugly woman will give her hair a lick and a promise, and screw it into any sort of an unbecoming knot at any sort of an angle, and let it go at that.

The beauty will take infinite pains in picking out just the shade and style of clothes that emphasize her every good point. The homely woman will buy garments so unsuitable, and that turn such a searchlight on her defects, that they look as if her worst enemy had picked them out.

Good looks are mostly good clothes. When we speak of a pretty woman we have not so much reference to her classical features, or pink and white complexion, as to the generally pleasing effect to the eye that she presents, and so I would urge any girl who realizes that nature did not enter her into the living picture class to make a profound study of the art of dress.

Also I would call the attention of a young girl to the fact that she can practically make her figure what she wants it by taking the proper exercises, and eating the right food, and that no girl who is healthy, and strong, and vital is ever really unattractive in appearance.

The homely girl who wants to be popular does well to learn how to no things. If she has any musical talent whatever let her learn how to play the piano so that she can play good dance music, or popular songs. Such a girl is always the center of the crowd in any gathering of young people. And she should be generous with her accomplishments, not out of the kind who have to be begged and persuaded, and coaxed, and bribed before she will touch the piano.

Let her then qualify in outdoor sports, and learn to play a good game of bridge. The girls who can fill in and take a hand at anything that comes along, and who are good sports, are always in demand.

If a girl hasn't beauty she needs brains. The homely girl should remember that she must make herself attractive by some other means than her looks, so she should read and study, and improve her mind, but by the same token she should avoid becoming a pedant and trying to show off how much she knows. The cleverest thing a clever woman ever does is to conceal from men just how clever she is.

In this connection, the ugly girl who is bright and humorous should especially guard herself against exercising her wits at the expense of others, and gaining a reputation of being sharp and sarcastic. Nothing is more fatal than that. People may forgive cutting speeches from Cupid's lips, but they never do when they issue from a mouth that looks like a slit in a letter box. Beauty is a cloak that covers a multitude of faults, but homeliness has no camouflage.

Unfortunately, there is no recipe one may give for becoming an entertaining conversationalist. The talent of the spellbinder is a gift from Heaven itself, and no amount of thought or study, or memorizing good jokes, and snappy stories, and brilliant repartee will serve as a substitute.

But while no girl can learn to be a fascinating talker, she can acquire the art of being a thrilling listener, and that is a far more potent charm to conjure with. She can learn to look the person who is speaking to her in the face, to follow the thread of his or her talk, to ask a question that shows how absorbed she is. She can even acquire heroism enough to urge the narrator to go on, and on, with his or her monologue, and the young woman who can do that has got the best talker in the world backed off the boards in the popularity contest.

As for self-consciousness, the one and only way to get rid of that is to quit thinking of yourself, and devote every particle of your attention to others. Self-consciousness is only an excuse of egotism. Get busy turning the spotlight on those about you and you will cease to think of how you look yourself. Think of other people and you will not remember yourself.

Finally, I would remind the homely girl that there are charms of the spirit more compelling than any charms of the body, and that even in this world where the girl who has a sweet disposition and a sunny temper, who is unselfish, and has a heart full of sympathy and understanding, need waste no tears on becoming lack of a peaches and cream complexion, and golden locks.

For the charms of the soul are the charms that win and hold us.

"Why Americans Make the Best Husbands"

DIAGNOSIS OF MARIE LOUISE GOMDIER, BELGIAN HEROINE

"Cites" the American Man for Conspicuous Chivalry, Good Looks, Generosity, Loyalty, Love of Children, Business Ability, Respect Toward Women, Cheerfulness and Love-Making.

By MARGUERITE MOORE'S

MARSHALL.

ADVANCE, American man! Miss Marie Louise Gomdier, beautiful, brave and 21, would decorate your modest breast with several ribbons and half a dozen medals. For years you have been bombarded with testimony from visiting European maidens as to the beauty, charm and general perfection of your wife, your daughter—the Great American Woman. Now it is your own long-desired turn to bask in the sunshine of foreign favor.

To put it in one word, you are the hero of the charming Belgian heroine, Miss Gomdier. Quite frankly, she would prefer an American husband to any European. She "cites" the American man for conspicuous chivalry, for good looks, for generosity, for loyalty, for love of children, for business ability, for respect toward women, for cheerfulness, for love-making.

When Miss Gomdier landed in America the other day her thrilling war record was told at length. Although a schoolgirl of 16 when the war broke out, she succeeded in twice disarming the enemy by her witless outfit placed in her home, near Ypres. The second time she was detected in the act and sentenced to death as a spy. However, an officer interceded for her and orders were issued that she be taken and sent to Germany as a prisoner. Before that happened—but not before she had been confined for several weeks—she escaped to the Canadian lines. There she served for several years as a nurse, was wounded when a German shell struck the hospital in which she was stationed, and received the French War Cross with a palm for her bravery.

After we entered the war she served in Paris with our Y. M. C. A. as French-English interpreter. Her own family has been practically wiped out and she has come to America to make her home with Mrs. Edna Doolittle of Los Angeles, a Y. M. C. A. worker and a pleasantly efficient young woman whom Miss Gomdier met in Paris.

For Miss Gomdier has an abiding admiration for all things American, and especially, perhaps, for the American man. He, by the way, returns the compliment—as well he may. Despite her harrowing experience, Miss Gomdier is a slender, fresh-looking young creature, with an apple-blossom complexion, long, brown eyes and a beguiling smile. At least a dozen times during the past year, according to her friends, Miss Gomdier might have acquired an American husband for her very own, had her admiration descended from the abstract to the concrete.

"Nevertheless," she confessed, between a smile and a blush, "I would rather marry an American than any European. I think the American man would make the better husband."

"Why?" I asked eagerly. After ten years of conducting dithyrambic interviews on the superiority of the American woman, I was delighted at the prospect of hearing a good word for the male of the species. I heard more than one.

"From my observation," Miss Gomdier began calmly, "I have discovered that the American man is more chivalrous than the European. The latter is superficially gallant and courteous to the woman who is young and pretty, but the American is capable of the most unselfish consideration for the woman of every age, of complete lack of attractiveness. In his gallantries the European thinks of himself, of the impression he is making and of what it may do him. The American thinks only of the comfort and happiness of the woman."

"That instinct is the reason for the fine loyalty of the American husband to his wife. In Europe the husband is often publicly attentive to any woman of the moment who has caught his fancy. I understand the American husband, in the great majority of cases, has eyes only for his wife.

"He is generous to her in every way. Not only is his purse always open, but he is generous enough to respect her opinions, her individuality. I know that many of your married wives should vote, concede their right to have personal interests outside the home. I think that tolerance, that generous respect for the personality of another, is a fine thing in the American man."

"And I am sure you admire him for his devotion to children," I contributed at this point. For the American boy overseas, playing with the little French, Belgian and even German children, has taught the world anew that "the bravest and the tenderest," and has proved that for him fatherhood has become almost as much of an instinct as motherhood always has been for women.

"That, too," agreed the pretty, thoughtful Belgian girl, with a smile. "And his kindness to children is surely only one manifestation of the American's amiability, good humor, cheerfulness. He has always a smile, a joke, instead of a frown. He likes to laugh, to make laughter around him."

"Then he has such efficiency in business," I said. "At that point I was guilty of interrupting Miss Gomdier, because Philip Gibbs is only the latest of many critics to intimate that the American man's devotion to business is precisely the reason why he often fails as a husband or lover. With this theory, however, his Belgian defender does not agree."

"I went up to the top of one of your tall towers this morning," she explained, "and I saw your men hurrying to and fro on their business. And I said, 'The Frenchman is interested in two things—vin blanc and vin rouge and women.'"

The Business of Home Making

Produce More; Consume Less.

By MRS. CHRISTINE FREDERICK.
Author, "Household Engineering."

If there is one slogan or motto which every household could well select as its own, and copy in letters of gold, to hang in its hall or kitchen, that motto would well be, "Produce more, consume less."

A half-century ago our population was chiefly composed of producers—now we have attendant higher prices just because there are more people who buy than people who make, grow and produce.

It has unfortunately grown unfashionable to work with the hands. Young men prefer stiff-collar jobs on office stools—women like better to wear office frocks than plain aprons while they do some homely kitchen task. But all the same, more of us have got to be producers, and that right quickly. We have got to stop buying every little thing instead of making it ourselves.

Is homemade bread cheaper than bought? Make a test and see. We can buy rye flour, for instance, at about $4 less per barrel than white. Suppose we were all to get busy and make some loaves of rye bread. Wouldn't that save our own pocket-book, and lift the strain from the excessive demand for manufactured white products?

Which cost more, children's clothes made at home, or the bought variety? In spite of the cheapness of many bought and ready-to-wear garments, when we consider wear, and use, the homemade article does last longer. It would be a real act of production for many women who now buy garments for their children, to stop and make those garments at home. It may be that we can buy for 50c a romper which costs 75c in material to make. But the homemade 75c romper will outwear two or three of the bought 50c kind.

At this season of the year, when fall fruit and vegetables are so plentiful, there is scarcely a woman who cannot can or put up a quantity of perishable foods. Even if the price of the jar is considered, it is far more economical to can tomatoes, string beans, pumpkins, etc., and to make grape juice, jelly and pear or apple products, than to buy the same foods packed commercially.

Why must children buy so many toys? Does anyone suppose that our fathers' fathers had as many painted, enameled gimcracks to amuse them? Let children make their own toys, even in kindergarten, or through the help of their mothers. Buttons and string and empty boxes and acorns and various seeds can all be constructed into most interesting and amusing things to play with by the child itself.

A mending kit would be the most sensible gift to many families.

Let children also be taught to become producers. Every girl in high school may be taught to make her own dresses and hats. Just compare the cost of a bought simple frock for a girl of that age, and the price of the same material home-made. And this need not lessen the manufacture of ready-to-wear, or affect the sale of commercial goods—it will only put more material in circulation, and lessen the shortage of workmen and materials for the present time.

The Garden Wedding.

THEY had lived in the same play room for a long time—this little pair. He was a solid-looking cloth boy doll filled with sawdust, while she was a dainty little papier-mache doll, who could be blown away by the wind, so frail was she.

And it was just because she could be blown away that the wedding came about one moonlight night in the garden.

The little girl who had been playing in the garden that day with her toys, carried some of them in the house at night and intended to come back for big boy doll and dainty little girl doll and Teddy Bear, but something happened—no one ever knew just what—but she forgot them and there they were when it became dark, out in the flower garden all alone.

Teddy Bear was sitting close by the garden seat, on the ground, and so was sheltered from the wind, and Boy Doll being so solid, the wind did not bother him. But poor little Girl Doll was so dainty and her dress so fluffy that the wind tossed her about on the ground until at last it threw her straight in the lap of Boy Doll, who sat under a rose bush.

Boy Doll did not let her go. He put both arms around her and held her fast, and as soon as the magic hour sounded he spoke to her.

"I have wished for this moment," he told her, "and now that I have you, let us be married this very night, in the moonlight among all the flowers. No other doll will ever have such a wedding. I am sure."

Of course, Girl Doll knew this was quite true and she really did love Boy Doll, but it would not do at all to let him think, though she had fallen into his arms, that she was glad to stay there.

"Oh! I could not think of such a thing," said the coquettish little creature. "There is no one to give me away."

"But I have you; no one need give you to me," said Boy Doll.

"Oh! I do not mean that way," said Girl Doll. "I mean we must have someone when we are married to give me away. Brides always have someone to do that."

"I am here," said Teddy Bear, from his seat on the ground. "I will give you away. Go ahead with the wedding."

Of course, she had no excuse now, and when Mr. Owl flew down from the tree overhead and said he would be the minister, Girl Doll answered, "Yes."

All the flowers in the garden began to dance, the wind stopped blowing and began to sing through the bushes and shrubs, the rosebush under which they stood shook over them her petals until the ground was covered with pink.

The stars twinkled and old Moon Man shone silvery through the trees, while the fireflies flew about and lighted the garden like fairyland.

And so they were married, and if it had not been for Teddy Bear be-

"A RE you sure they are one and the same?" asked Braye. "I mean the man who killed Mr. Bruce and Verne, and the one who carried off Miss Zizi?"

"Yes," said Wise, thoughtfully. "There are not two such. I should say. But the quest of one person is my immediate business. If I find there are others implicated, I shall get them, too. I am not more incensed over the attack on Zizi than on your two friends, but I don't deny it has given me an added wrong to avenge. But for the child's strong nerve, and clever quickness of action, she would now lie at the bottom of the lake where."

He stopped abruptly. "Go away, all of you," he said, in a low, strained voice. "I mean, go about your business, but leave me myself for a time. Peterson, come in here."

He went into the Room with the Tassels. Peterson followed and Zizi gazed beside them. The door closed and the group left in the hall to find one another in perplexity and horror.

"I can't understand, Wynne," said Milly, "who took Zizi away?"

"I don't know, dear; what do you think, Professor?"

"I think in no way directions that I'm sure none of them is right. Awful things suggest themselves to my mind, but I can't believe them, and I dismiss them, half thought out."

"That's the way with me," sighed Braye. "It looks now as if there must be someone who gets in from outside the house, and who is responsible for all the inexplicable happenings. Of course, that would point to Stebbins, we must all admit that."

The servants had left the hall, so Braye permitted himself this freedom of speech.

"I don't say it's Stebbins," the Professor mused, "but I do think it's someone from outside. There may be a village inhabitant who is possessed of a homicidal mania, that's the theory that seems to me the only one possible. And we must assume, now, that there is a secret way to get in and out of the house."

"Perhaps he will," said Hardwick, "also, perhaps he has. He doesn't tell all he knows. Now, this is certain. All here present are, I am thankful to say, free from any breath of suspicion."

Right there to give the bride away no one in the playroom the next night, when the story was told, would have believed that such a gorgeous wedding had taken place.

And after that all the dolls in the playroom hoped that the little mistress would forget them some night and leave them in the garden. But as there was no other boy doll in the playroom, I do not see how any of them could have a wedding. Do you?

picion. For last night, you, Braye, our doors open, and none of us have left our rooms without being observed by the others. The same true of the ladies, and, of course, Mrs. Landon can vouch for her husband."

"Don't talk that way," said Norma with a shudder. "You know none of us could be suspected."

"Not by ourselves," agreed the Professor, "nor by each other, of course. But by an outsider, or the servants, or by the detectives, is, indeed, a good thing to have matters arranged as they are. I feel decided satisfaction in knowing that no unjust suspicion can attach itself to any one of our party."

"That's so," and Braye nodded. "But it doesn't get us any nearer the real criminal. I incline to Professor's idea of a man of homicidal mania, in the village. That's a real disease, and that people are diabolically clever in cunning in carrying out their criminal impulses."

"But how could such a man in?" asked Eve, her eyes wide with wonder.

"We don't know," said Braye. "There must be a secret entrance. Stebbins as good as admitted it was, but he wouldn't tell where. However, it's unimportant, he got in, if he did get in."

"Do you mean that some such person acted the ghost—and all that," said Norma, dubiously.

"But if so, how could they kill Bruce and Verne? Oh, it's too ridiculous. Those two deaths were occasioned by any crazy man. East Drayden! It's impossible."

"Come out for a little stroll, Norma," said Braye to her, seeing her nervously excited the girl was. "A breath of fresh air will do you good, and we can do nothing here."

They went out into the pleasant August sunshine, and strolled toward the lake.

"Do you mean," begged Norma, "it's too horrible. Oh, Rudolf, who do you suppose tried to do that poor little Zizi?"

"Nobody, Norma. She made that yarn."

"Oh, no, Rudolf, I don't think so."

"Yes, she did. That was in trying to get at his discoveries in the real fashion all detectives love use, and that movie actress is part of his stock in trade. She fell in love, all right, I dare say, but it's tale about the bogy man, but it's not sure of that."

"But how did she get out of the house, and leave all the doors locked behind her?"

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE LESSON OF HISTORY.

On the sunny African isles
Where the ladies were light on their feet,
And under the mangoes did shimmy and tangoes
That were far more risqué than discreet,
Reformers would often arise,
Hold up their stern hands and proclaim:
"Profaning the Voodoo by dancing like you do
Is a blot on the Hottentot name!"
But as soon as the tom-tom resumed
Its rhythmic, sensuous boom
The same undulations and gyrations
Enlivened the tropical gloom!

In the land of the Bashl Bazonks
Where they dance in the manner of snakes,
With many a quiver and shudder and shiver,
And a shocking assortment of shakes,
Whenever a prude happens by,
He cries, with a horrified glance:
"No modest young Bulgar would do things so vulgar;
The law should prohibit this dance!"
But when he has gone on his way
And the music starts playing once more,
The shiver of sinews and muscles continues,
Exactly the same as before.

And so, when we listen today
To the strenuous voice of reform,
The statement advancing that up to date dancing
Is getting a little too warm,
We know that the youth of the land
Will pause with a pitying smile,
And dance more sedately and less intimately,
But when they're reformed for a while,
From Zanzibar, Afghanistan,
Or Bangkok, Beline or Brazil,
Or Greenland or Lapland or China or Japland They'll get a more shocking dance still!
